Test Date Transfers

Transfer Policies for IELTS (Academic and General Training)

You may change your test date at any time before the test.

You must select a new test date, where available, within three months of your original test date.

You can only transfer the same booking once.

You can change test venue and module with the same test format.

You may transfer your test date:

- five weeks before the scheduled test date (first component) – free of charge
- less than five weeks before the scheduled test date (first component) – an administration fee of 25% of the total test fee will be charged*
- less than three days before the scheduled test date (first component) – no transfers can be arranged, except in the exceptional circumstances stated below:
 - serious illness or medical incident (such as hospital admission or a major injury)
 - bereavement – loss of a close family member
 - hardship or trauma (such as being a victim of crime or involved in a traffic accident)
 - military service

The transfer test date must be within three months of the original test date. If you are unable to attend on the transfer test date, neither a further transfer nor a refund can be given.

Test centre exceptions

Under certain circumstances outside of test centre control, we may have to cancel your test and transfer it to a future date. These circumstances include, but may not be limited to, extreme weather conditions, natural disaster, civil unrest, industrial action, global pandemic or for reasons of force majeure.

In these circumstances, your test centre will provide you with as much notice as possible and give you the choice of either a full refund, or a transfer to a future test date – whichever you prefer.

If your test is cancelled or postponed due to other circumstances such as technical failure, venue or environmental factors, your test centre will provide you with as much notice as possible and give you the choice of a refund or a transfer to a future test.
